

Early Intervention

It's the Rhode Island way.

Highlights: What you need to know

We know that of all the things we want our children to have, there is nothing we can give them that is better than a great start. Our Early Intervention (EI) program helps Rhode Islanders with infants and toddlers who have developmental delays by building upon the good work they're already doing at home with additional knowledge, support, and strategies.

We prioritize the education and health of our youngest Rhode Islanders and ensure our EI services are without cost to families, convenient, and effective—because that's the Rhode Island way.

- You are your child's most important teacher and decision-maker. We work alongside you to provide the best support possible to ensure your child is learning and growing at their highest potential.
- We're here to listen, support, answer questions, and provide strategies for your child's growth as part of a committed team.
- Young children learn best in familiar places with adults they know and trust. That's why EI services are provided in places where children usually play or take part in daily activities, such as their home or childcare center.
- We evaluate and provide services for your family at no cost to you.

What is Early Intervention?

Early Intervention (EI) is a program designed to help families support the growth and development of children who have a developmental delay or a diagnosed medical condition known to cause developmental delay and who are under the age of 3 years old. Developmental delays or disabilities can affect a child's speech, physical ability, or social skills. Our providers are trained to assess and help in each of these areas.

Who is eligible for EI services?

Early Intervention services are available to Rhode Island children who are under the age of 3 and have been assessed and diagnosed with a developmental disability or delay in one or more areas.

How do I know if my child needs Early Intervention?

We understand the stress of wondering if your child could benefit from Early Intervention services. We are here to make evaluation simple. Our certified providers evaluate RI children under the age of three at no cost to you. To set up an evaluation with a provider that serves your area, please call the RI Parent Information Network at 401-270-0101 or see our provider list below.

How much do Early Intervention services cost me or my family?

Nothing. Early Intervention services are free for families with children who are eligible. Services are paid for by private insurance, Medicaid, and/or federal dollars.
